

SURVEILLANCE: Film Screening and Discussion Series 2/3

"Bone-chilling... Darkly funny... Astounding..." - Variety

"Horribly revealing of where our own society has headed." - SF Bay Guardian

"A fascinating tale of dot-com boom, bust and bizarreness" - Wired Magazine

"Riveting -- a compelling cautionary tale." - New York Times

WE LIVE IN PUBLIC

A FILM BY ONDI TIMONER

Come and join us in part two of our surveillance film and discussion series!

Currently in Aotearoa/NZ the GCSB bill has disturbing implications for both individual privacy and civil liberties. It gives the state increased powers of surveillance that allow it to be increasingly intrusive and challenge freedom of speech. Beside the fact that it infringes on human rights there is also no evidence of necessity or effectiveness. This kind of activity has been a global trend within the last decade.

The series will have three parts:

The first week we will focus on moving beyond the problem, and lay out a vision of where we want to go.

The second week we will focus on the problem and the challenges of reaching our end goal.

And finally we will focus on possible solutions to the issue and what action we can take .
